As in any profession, you work your way up the pay scale. You will probably start with a base salary while building clientele. After your clientele is established, you will rise gradually as you gain experience and client retention. The amount you make will fluctuate with the seasons, experience, salon, location, Etc... These figures are only an estimated amount. You can make more than this if you work on a daily basis to improve yourself and your business.

As professionals in any of these fields we should convey strength, trust and knowledge. When we are touching something, there is a bonding and caring, expressed that is missing in so many lives today. People in these professions are usually good with their hands. They have the desire to nurture and help people feel better, which makes you feel better about yourself. These are fun and rewarding professions.
